HUMANITY IN ACTION

COPENHAGEN

FELLOWSHIP

TOWARDS AN INCLUSIVE SOCIETY:
A CULTURAL PERSPECTIVE

#HIA2019

Welcome Letter

Foundations and New Challenges

Since our founding in 1997, Humanity in Action has worked to instill the values of human dignity and moral responsibility for the protection of the rights of minorities in a new generation of social, cultural and political leaders. Inspired by the rescue of the Danish Jews in 1943, Humanity in Action Denmark and the Copenhagen Fellowship represent the very foundation of this work. Since the initial and founding Copenhagen program in 1997, we have educated, inspired and connected more than 1700 young people Worldwide.

The Copenhagen Fellowship proudly works to continue this tradition. Yet, over the past 22 years, we have also sought to expand upon our foundations. As new challenges face our democratic societies, so the program develops and redefines itself. Today, the Copenhagen Fellowship explores not only the roots of its own history, but also contemporary human rights issues and issues affecting minoritized groups. Pedagogically, the Copenhagen Fellowship strives to be a testing ground for new thinking driven by the Fellow dialogue, discussions and disagreements. Through a highly interdisciplinary program, the Fellowship seeks to engage its Fellows in current democratic challenges and inspire them to action – now and in the future.

We would like to express our gratitude to our donors. The Humanity in Action Fellowship in Copenhagen is only possible because of supporters who have continually believed in the idea of Humanity in Action. We are deeply thankful to Knud Højgaards Fond, Åge og Johanne Louis Hansens Fond, Hermod Lannung Fonden, Ernst og Vibeke Husmans Fond & Frantz Hoffmanns Mindelegat, Politiken-Fonden and Forlaget Columbus Fond for supporting the program through many years. We are also, grateful to the Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF). Without their generous support it would not be possible to invite Greek Fellows into the program.

We would further like to sincerely thank our host families, who - once again - open their homes to our international Fellows.

At a time of great tension in local, national and international realms, we are proud to welcome our new 2019 cohort and to support pluralistic voices that works towards advancing social justice in Denmark and other countries around the world.

Adaeze Nduaguba

Dartmouth College

Adaeze was born in southeastern Nigeria but spent the majority of her life in Boston, Massachusetts. She graduated from Dartmouth College where she double majored in Government and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. She also spent a semester abroad at the London School of Economics. At Dartmouth, she was a James O. Freedman Presidential Scholar and a Human Development Fellow. On campus, she led several anti-sexual assault initiatives while on the Student and Presidential Committee on Sexual Assault and the V-February Committee, and as a trained Sexual Assault Peer Advocate. Her professional experiences while in college included interning at Commonwealth Magazine, National Organization for Women, and the White House. Upon graduation, she moved to the Silicon Valley and works at Google. Outside of work, she is a board member of About-Face and Next Door Solutions to Domestic Violence. She is also an active member of the Silicon Valley Young Democrats.

Ana Elisa Gomez Laris

Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz

After spending most of her life in California, Mexican-born Ana Elisa Gomez Laris moved to Germany in late 2011 to study at the Johannes Gutenberg University in Mainz. There, she is active in several committees and organizations as a student advisor and advocate, in particular for international and working-class students. Currently she is writing her master's thesis at the Obama Institute for Transnational American Studies. In her thesis, she aims to construct a typology of legal and cultural citizenship based on creative fiction and non-fiction expressions of citizenship by undocumented immigrants and refugees in the United States. Building on this, she plans to pursue a PhD in law, literature, and migration. A firm believer that the creative arts change lives, she has participated in several theatrical productions.

Ann Sloan Wilson

University of South Carolina

Born and raised in South Carolina, Sloan Wilson is a rising junior at the University of South Carolina Honors College with a double major in Political Science and Women and Gender Studies. As an intern at Planned Parenthood South Atlantic, she founded Planned Parenthood Generation Action, a student organization that focuses on advocating for reproductive justice in her community. She was recently elected president of the campus organization International Justice Mission that focuses on educating the community on human trafficking and advocating for anti-trafficking legislation in the South Carolina Statehouse. During her freshman year, she interned with the public defender's office and attended a study abroad program for Holocaust studies. In her spare time, Sloan enjoys reading, hiking, and listening to true crime podcasts. After university, Sloan plans to attend law school for human rights, focus on genocide prevention, and work in the field of international transitional justice.

Arifa Mujahid

University of Southern Denmark

Originating from Pakistan, Arifa was raised in Denmark and identifies as a true Copenhagener. She is pursuing her MSc in Comparative Public Policy and Welfare Studies at the University of Southern Denmark at the Danish Centre for Welfare Studies. Academically, she has an interest for the role the Welfare State plays in accommodating the needs of precarious, migrant workers in today's changing economies and dualized markets. In the coming semester, she will be interning at a private research company and consultancy in Copenhagen that specializes in social research within the areas of minority rights and integration issues. Apart from her academic interests, Arifa has a dedication to sustainability. She was an UNLEASH 2017 Talent and now serves as a Project Officer for the Networks team at the UN's Sustainable Development Solutions Networks where she helps coordinate a global higher-education engagement program for the Sustainable Development Goals, the SDG Students Program.

Elias Lowe

University of Pittsburgh

Elias Lowe is a recent graduate from the University of Pittsburgh with a Non-fiction Writing and Spanish major. They have been thoroughly immersed in Pittsburgh community organizing for the past four years with a specific engagement in fighting cash bail and incarceration. Elias also works closely with an anarcha-feminist group that seeks to empower women, queer and trans people to resist at the axes of capitalism, colonialism, racism, and patriarchy. In their spare time, Elias plays in bands, writes poetry and tries to deepen their relationship with their community and the earth. As a lifelong student and organizer, they hope to make an international community that can unite against borders to build a better world.

Fiona Dubois

Université Paris Diderot

For four years, Fiona has been involved in the defense of immigrants' rights in Paris. In 2017, she co-developed and coordinated a solidarity housing network for more than 150 previously down-and-out underage migrants and led a mobilisation campaign against the townhall of Paris. She also participated in the foundation work of the "Collectif pour une nation refuge" which is a network of practical and political collaboration between 112 local organizations everywhere in France. As a mobilisation strategist and trainer for L'Accélérateur de la mobilisation, she teaches project leaders how to conceive strategies for impactful mobilisation campaigns. Through her Master's degree in sociology called « Migrations, racism, and alterity » (MIRA), Fiona gained a strong interest and interpretative framework on racial discriminations and ethnicity issues. She wants to pursue in this path in order to change organizations from the inside by implementing anti-discrimination processes and moving towards a more inclusive culture.

Born and raised in Berlin, Johanna Hühn is currently finishing her B.A. in Comparative Literature and Political Science at FU Berlin. After graduating from high school, she volunteered with Action Reconciliation Service for Peace (ARSP), working for one year with the elderly Jewish community of the Lower East Side for Project Ezra, New York. In the course of her studies she spent two terms at Universidad Autónoma in Madrid. In Berlin, she has been volunteering with local organizations that provide German classes and legal assistance for refugees and migrants and participated in research on immigration, media and voting behavior. Strongly interested in arts and languages, she has worked with a participatory theatre project, as a teacher for German as a foreign language and forms part of a poetry collective.

Copenhagen Fellows

Johanne Kjaer

University of Southern Denmark

Johanne, living in Copenhagen since age 15. Growing up in a family highly engaged in culture, politics and foreign affairs, I started studying social sciences and language in high school before starting on my BA in religious studies and Arabic language at university. I am very passionate about traveling, which I have done as much as my studies has allowed it. With an especially profound interest for studies related to Islam, I am now enrolled in my MA program in Contemporary Middle East Studies at SDU and the following Fall I will be enrolled in an internship at the Danish representation in Palestine. Besides from my studies, I work in an NGO to help newcomers settle in Denmark, especially with regards to getting established on the Danish labor market. I consider equal opportunities a fundamental human right and my work is important to me. I love living in and exploring Copenhagen.

Johanne Lerhard

Lund University

Copenhagen born and based, Johanne Lerhard commutes between Denmark and Sweden, where she's currently enrolled in a double major in Social Anthropology and Journalism. With a strong passion for feminism and women's rights she has volunteered with a women's immigration centre and Danish NGO Girltalk. She is a co-founder of the emerging social platform SØSTER, which seeks to create a broader representation of what it means to be a woman in 2019. Apart from her studies she works as a production assistant at a large publishing house. She hopes to pursue a journalistic career, which takes from an anthropological perspective. Curious about the nature of cultural differences, through representation she aspires to telling stories that make the gap between people smaller in order to create a foundation for mutual understanding globally.

Lydia Deichmann
Lund University

Originally from Denmark, Lydia grew up in Zimbabwe when her family emigrated there after she was born. Her passion for addressing human rights grew when she did a Bachelor's degree in Journalism in England. She did her thesis as a radio documentary, exploiting the practice of female genital mutilation. Lydia has just completed her Master's in International Development and Management at Lund University, where she gained a stronger interest in the human rights implications of global healthcare issues. She is particularly interested in mental health, with her Master's thesis focusing on mental healthcare services in rural South Africa. Lydia recently completed a 6 month internship with an NGO which specialises in maternal and child healthcare and research in South Africa. Lydia is also passionate about working with minority rights, especially among young people. She has been voluntarily working with children at an asylum-seekers centre for Save the Children in Sweden.

Maja Kjærgaard Nielsen
Aarhus University

Born in Denmark, Maja did her studies at Aarhus University. She first did a BA in Anthropology, followed by a Master's in Human Security (a new degree applying cultural and environmental perspectives to development- and conflict studies), which she completed in May, 2019. Maja specialized in human rights and civil society organizations, and spent a semester conducting fieldwork in India with a women's rights NGO. This served as the empirical foundation for her Master's thesis, which explored the process of translating human rights principles into practical prescriptions for development-projects. Although a travel-addict in general, Maja has developed a particular interest for India and is trying hard to learn Hindi. Additionally, she has been a volunteer with Mellempfolkeligt Samvirke and Dansk Flygtningehjælp, working with minority groups and integration. Maja plans to pursue a career in the field of human rights and gender equality - hopefully one involving many trips to India.

Practical Information

2019 Humanity in Action Practical Information

>> Our Venue: The Osram House

The Copenhagen Fellowship will take place at Osramhuset (The Osram House), a community center located in the North West part of Copenhagen; a vibrant, lively and diverse part of the city.

Osram House was originally built as a warehouse for a light bulb manufacturer, but is now an example of how daylight can transform a dark, industrial building into a hub for cultural activities.

Importantly, this location also means that the Fellows and Fellowship must respect the space that we have been invited to be a part of. We expect that you will help keep it in good shape and order and be mindful of other activities in the house when being in common areas.

>> Our Cleaning Responsibilities

We are all in this space, at Osram House, together. It is therefore important that we keep both the common facilities and our own classroom clean and tidy. Furthermore, we will have to store our tables and chairs away every day - we will all help each other with this chore every day.

2019 Humanity in Action

Practical Information

>> Food

OneBowl is preparing our lunch most days during the fellowship. They describe themselves as not just a restaurant but rather a space for all, no matter the circumstance, to come and share the value of good and nourishing food, prepared by a team of devoted volunteers. OneBowl only serve vegan food.

>> Host Families: Experiencing Everyday Life in Denmark

Most of the international Fellows will be staying in the Greater Copenhagen area with a host or host family who are interested in getting to know our Fellows and being part of Humanity in Action. As a hosted Fellow, you will be part of a host family's everyday life. This exchange is an important part of the Copenhagen Fellowship experience, and is a great opportunity to get to know life in Denmark.

We expect that you take part in the everyday life of your host family, joining their meals and helping them with their chores. Of course, each family is different and we therefore request all Fellows to start their homestay by discussing each others' expectations. The staff of Humanity in Action Denmark will of course always be available to address any issues, should they arise.

>> Other Important Information

- Smoking is prohibited indoors. Smoking is allowed outside.
- The wifi is kk public and does not require a password.
- Alcohol is prohibited during the week except during special events and on Friday nights.
- Osram House is staffed 9.00 AM - 14.00 PM. In this period of time, the front door will be unlocked. We will provide you with a password that gives you access to Osram House outside of these hours.

Beyond the Program

A life-long engagement

Being a Humanity in Action Fellow

The Humanity in Action Fellowship may only last for a month, but an engagement in Humanity in Action lasts for much longer.

The Humanity in Action Fellowship will be your entryway into a global network of people dedicated to promoting human rights, diversity and active citizenship around the world, and there are many ways to engage in this network. The diagram below shows each Fellow's progression through Humanity in Action, starting with the Fellowship, the planning and execution of their Action Project, and the Senior Fellow opportunities available to them afterwards. See more about these opportunities on our website.

Action Projects

Turning knowledge into action

As a Humanity in Action Fellow, you must plan and implement an Action Project - a hands-on initiative inspired by your Fellowship experience. Action Projects give you the opportunity to take what you learned during the Fellowship programs and use that knowledge to address real-life issues in your own communities. The projects reflect each Fellow's unique experience and interests. Action Projects may take many different forms, including community service, public advocacy, art projects, lectures, conferences and social entrepreneurship. Below you can find examples of Action Projects carried out by Copenhagen Fellows 2017-2019.

Examples of Completed Action Projects

Escape4Youth

An ESCAPE ROOM for youth aiming to strengthen democratic participation. By 2018 Copenhagen Fellows Kristina Møller and Frederik Kirk.

No Straws Attached

An international campaign to end the use of plastic straws. By 2017 Copenhagen Fellow Priyanka Kalra.

SHE Talks

A safe space sex-ed program for young Nigerian girls. By 2017 Copenhagen Fellow Faith Oloruntuba.

LGBTQ* refugees

A workshop for Venligboerne on intersectional LGBTQ* issues. By 2017 Copenhagen Fellows Helen Ali and Semi Killic.

Theme and Program Components

2019 Humanity in Action Fellowship Theme

Towards an Inclusive Society: A Cultural Perspective

The Humanity in Action Copenhagen Fellowship aims to explore human rights issues and issues concerning minoritized groups in Denmark. Since its inception, the foundation of the Copenhagen Fellowship has been the lesson of the rescue of Danish Jews during WWII in October 1943, when most of Denmark's Jewish minority, aided by large numbers of Danish countrymen, were brought to safety in neutral Sweden - ever since a hallmark of Danish history and identity.

The Copenhagen Fellowship delves into the paradoxes of Danish society, the inclusion and exclusion mechanisms of the welfare state, the historical narrative of racial of cultural homogeneity and its impact on current debates regarding ethnic and religious minorities, its liberal everyday culture combined with stricter policies and harsher rhetoric towards migrants and refugees. Taking place in one of the allegedly happiest and definitely wealthiest countries in the world, with an egalitarian and universal health care, education and social welfare system, the Copenhagen Fellowship is uniquely situated to explore old challenges and new tensions in the coexistence between majority and minority in Danish society.

With the aim of strengthening active citizenship, diversity and civil responsibility in times of political polarization and challenges to the legitimacy of human rights and democratic institutions, the Copenhagen Fellowship programs from 2017 - 2019 focus on the building of inclusive societies.

In 2017, the Copenhagen Fellowship tackled this theme from a historical perspective. In 2018 from a political, and this year, 2019, the Copenhagen Fellowship scrutinizes the challenges and prospects in the development of an inclusive and diverse Denmark from a cultural perspective.

Culture is a of course a wide concept - in itself it says nothing, or can encompass everything. In this Fellowship we will examine culture as something people do instead of have. As a fluid and ever changing concept, a constant negotiation, interaction, and exchange between people and groups. We will look at how people, groups, and organisations perform culture, and we will explore it as a relation of power: who gets to decide what a certain culture is? Who gets to assign what culture to whom? And who gets to decide the boundaries between "cultures"? Throughout the program, culture is our lens that will guide us in exploring minority-majority relations, dynamics and power structures.

Important Program Components

CHECK IN and CHECK OUT

CHECK IN and CHECK OUT are important components of our everyday schedule, and will manifest the beginning and the end of our day. They will usually take maximum 15 minutes. These are meant to be spaces of transition where we prepare ourselves to either begin or end the day, which will sometimes include exercises inspired by meditation or mindfulness. It is also a space for asking short questions regarding the course of the day.

Fellow Sessions

The Fellow Session is your, the fellows', time to shine! These sessions are a maximum of 15 minutes long and you will decide what this period of time will consist of. It can be anything from a small lecture about something you are very passionate about or inspired by to a game you think could bring something special to the group or Fellowship. The Fellow Sessions will be spread out over the entire Fellowship and you will sign up for them during the Introductory Weekend. We do not expect you to prepare your fellow session in advance, but if you feel more comfortable with it, it is an option. We are ready to help you with anything you need for your fellow session; from powerpoint to paper and pencils!

Open Space

Open space is an opportunity for you to contribute to the Copenhagen Fellowship. If you for instance feel something is missing from the program, this space aims to accommodate that. In cooperation with your fellow Fellows, you can organise a site visit, a lecture, a city walk, a group reflection or discussion or something else you think could strengthen our understanding of inclusion and exclusion in Danish society.

Action Project Workshops

The Action Project Workshops will help you develop, plan and execute your Action Project. At our Senior Fellow ACTION DAY on June 29, all 2019 Fellows will pitch their Action Project idea. We provide you with a more detailed description of the Action Project and your pitch at the Action Project Workshops. You can also read more about the opportunities beyond this Fellowship elsewhere in this booklet.

Opening of the 2019
CPH Fellowship:
Let's get to know each other and the Fellowship Part 1!

Let the program begin!

We will start the day with a brunch, a round of introduction and a light social activity.

During the day, we will present common program expectations, program components and practical tips about your stay in Copenhagen (transportation, health, safety, etc.). You will be guided through sessions that aim to give answers to the question: What does it mean to explore collaboratively?

The afternoon and evening is dedicated to spending time together and having fun!

SUNDAY JUNE 9 2019

Let's get to know each other and the Fellowship
Part 2!

We are about to enter a month of intense learning together - this journey will both be challenging and exciting!

We believe that building a foundation of trust and team spirit is essential to reflect, discuss and debate in a healthy way.

At the same time, we value the importance of giving space to just "be" and therefore, we are teaming up with two mindfulness and team building coaches!

Jewish History in CPH & October 1943: The Rescue of the Danish Jews

In 1943 Danish Jews were rescued to Sweden with aid from civil society in Denmark. This particular story of civil responsibility has been key to the founding of Humanity in Action.

Through a guided city walk, we will explore histories of the Jewish minority in Copenhagen, anti-semitism and human rights issues that the Jewish minority experiences today.

In the afternoon, we will celebrate the 90th Birthday of Bent Melchior who fled to Sweden in 1943. He will be sharing his memories of flight with us and present day civil engagement.

Traces of Colonialism #1 Denmark's History as a Colonial Power

It is time to reflect upon this first week of the Fellowship. What can we take with us from this week, and how would we like to enter the next?

Before weekend kicks in, we will open the door to an until recently neglected part of Danish history: The history of colonialism.

Through a guided tour in the city center of Copenhagen, we will identify the traces of colonialism and its manifestations on buildings, statues and architecture.

Questions on Identity and Representation

What is identity politics? Does the practice of identity politics pertain to only some groups in society or are all politics, in fact, identity politics?

In public and political discourse the term identity politics is often used to criticize or delegitimize the claims to justice made by under and/or misrepresented groups in society.

Today, we will explore examples of claims to rights violations and offensive behavior at Danish Universities and how universities have responded. The aim is to address broader questions pertaining to issues of discrimination, respect and cultural norms at Danish universities.

"Ghettos" and "Parallel Societies" Mechanisms of Inclusion and Exclusion

The Danish government recently issued the so called "ghetto package" seeking to eradicate "parallel societies" by 2030. The aim is to build a cohesive Denmark.

But what is meant with the term "parallel society"? And what would a cohesive Denmark look like?

We will explore claims to citizenship, resistance to homogenization and the possibilities of practicing inclusion through architecture.

Climate Change
Visions for the Future

In Denmark there exists agreement across the political spectrum that climate change is one of the biggest (if not the biggest) challenge of our times.

But how do we move from problem to solution? How can we develop policies that enhance a just transition? Visiting the Danish Ministry of Energy, Utilities and Climate, we will explore and discuss these questions.

The day continues in the name of making change. Through interactive learning methods, you will be granted space to build visions and develop tools for a just future!
