SATURDAY, JULY 10TH

A full day of presentations, workshops and networking sessions curated by John Lewis Fellowship alumni. All sessions will occur on the Zoom platform. Pre-registration is required. Times listed are ET.

9:00 AM EDT

Introduction to the Day's Program

9:15 AM EDT

Session 1: Dr. Karcheik Sims-Alvarado, Inaugural John Lewis Fellowship Director (2014 - 2015), "Discovering the Past, Transforming the Present through Social Justice Education: Designing a Fellowship to Teach the Structure and History of America's Social Movements"

Break

10:00 AM EDT

Session 2: Interactive Talks moderated by 2017 Senior Fellow Hope Anderson

10:10 - 10:30 AM EDT

- 2018 Senior Fellow Gino Nuzzolillo, "The Neighborhood Union and Visions of the New South in Black Atlanta"

At the turn of the 20th century, the city of Atlanta flaunted its status as capital of the New South. For all of its New South aspirations, however, inequality along lines of race, class and gender defined daily life. In September 1906, a violent massacre – which left dozens of Black Atlantans dead at the hands of a white mob – tarnished Atlanta's New South veneer and made clear the ways in which competing visions of a "New South city" were playing out in Atlanta's streets, saloons, and neighborhoods. This presentation provides an introduction to these many visions, primarily from the perspective of Black women who radically confronted systemic inequality and racial violence in early 20th century Atlanta.

10:30 - 10:50 AM EDT

- 2015 Senior Fellow Devon Crawford, "Achieving our Country: Creating Justice in Real Time"

Description forthcoming.

10:50 - 11:10 AM EDT

- 2019 Senior Fellow Ishan Sharma, "Emerging Surveillance Technologies & 21st Century Democracy"

In the last decade, global demand for surveillance technologies has skyrocketed, changing what is possible from autocracy and what is required to preserve democracy. From the rise of digital facial recognition and remote phone hacking equipment, to the continuous use of aerial drones and social media monitoring, these transformational methods are delivering the capacity for systematic, population-wide harm in at least 100 countries. What will we see in the next decade, as new methods of surveillance emerge and the second half of the world gains access to the Internet? And how should we as citizens, the United States, and democratic allies respond?

Session 3: Concurrent Workshops moderated by 2020 Senior Fellow Beth Awano

- Breakout Room A: “Educational Equity: Implementing an Ethnic Studies Curriculum”

2017 Senior Fellow Alex Mabanta, Campaign Manager, California Asian American and Pacific Islanders Campaign, Asian Pacific Islander School Board Members Association, and Karen Korematsu, Founder and Executive Director, Fred T. Korematsu Institute

Ethnic Studies is a powerful tool to transform classrooms: empowering all students with the narratives and contributions of people of color. This event features the evolution and adoption of the Ethnic Studies Model Curriculum in the state of California, the first-in-nation K-12 curriculum to elevate African American Studies, Chicana/o/x and Latina/o/x Studies, Asian American and Pacific Islander Studies, and Native American Studies. As a call-to-action, the event features a workshop for how participants may develop an ethnic studies curriculum for their specific profession or community of practice, and/or inaugurate Ethnic Studies in their local school districts, so that one day, youth and adult learners in all 50 states may acquire a more equitable and inclusive education centered on anti-racism and social justice.

- Breakout Room B: “Moving Money: A Financial Activist Playbook for Racial Justice”

2018 Senior Fellow Jasmine Rashid, Impact Investor, Oakland-based firm Candide Group

We all have the power to influence the flow of money in our communities. Join Jasmine Rashid for this interactive workshop on how you can take actions big and small for moving money in line with racial justice. From influencing millions out of the private prison / immigrant detention industry, to directing investments into social impact companies, to changing who you buy from and bank with, this workshop is designed to be valuable to everyone regardless of how much money you have (or don't have) in the bank.

Yoga will run during lunch from 12:45 - 1:05 pm.

1:15 PM EDT

Session 4: Concurrent Workshops moderated by JLF Associate Director Hanane Abouellotfi

- Breakout Room A: “Organizing as Abundance: Building New Worlds Through Pleasure” 2019 Senior Fellows Jess Pires-Jancose and Momo Wilms-Crowe

How do we make organizing feel good and tap into the radically transformative power of joy to build the world of our dreams? What might your community look like if it were centered around pleasure, healing, and justice? What would it feel like? Join Momo and Jess as we explore transformative examples from past movements as well as from our own organizing work, and engage in a collaborative exercise where we imagine how we might rebuild our communities in a way that centers abundance and collective thriving by asking: what if?

- Breakout Room B: “Building community solidarity and amplifying Asian voices in times of Covid-19” 2019 Senior Fellows June Thalin-Worm and Hoangtran “Hany” Hieu Hanh

This talk-and-skill session is based on a 2020 HIA action project called “Dinner & Dialogue,” a process of building solidarity among Asian communities living in Europe. The presenters will introduce the topic of anti-Asian discrimination throughout the pandemic and their efforts to tackle increased racism, derogatory language and physical attacks using art, identity-exploration, positive language and self-care as tools of activism.

2:00 PM EDT

Fellows’ Social Meetup

Network and reconnect with your fellowship cohort in breakout rooms.

2:30 PM EDT

Session 5: Interactive talks moderated by Hanane Abouellotfi

2:35 PM EDT

- “Federal Indian Policy in the Age of Deb Haaland” 2017 Senior Fellow Emily McDonnell

In 2021, Laguna Pueblo Congresswoman Deb Haaland (D-NM-1) made history as the first Native American to serve as the Secretary of the Interior. Why is this significant and what does this mean for Tribal nations in the United States? In this session Emily will delve into the history of Federal Indian Policy in the U.S. and how Deb Haaland’s Cabinet appointment has enormous potential to shape public policy for Tribal nations in a way that we have never seen before.

SATURDAY, JULY 10TH

3:00 PM EDT

- "Black and Indigenous Solidarity" 2017 Senior Fellows Trey Walk and Emily McDonnell

In this session, Trey and Emily will explore the historical relationship between Black Americans and Indigenous (also called Native Americans) in the United States. This in-depth conversation will specifically address disenfranchisement, racial tensions, and the oppression both communities have faced--sometimes at the hand of each other. Through this dialogue our goal is to acknowledge the complicated and violent history which will instruct us in creating a path for Black-Indigenous solidarity going forward.
